Abstract

The use of compositions containing anionic chitosan derivatives to treat contact lenses is described. The compositions are particularly useful for removing protein deposits from contact lenses, but also serve to lubricate the surfaces of the lenses and enhance the comfort of the lenses when worn on the eyes.

10